HUD Allows E-W Gateway Grant Of $263,258

A federal grant of $362,258 has been made to the East-West Gateway Commission Council by the Federal Housing and Urban Development Agency, Congressmen Price (D-East St. Louis) announced at Washington yesterday.

The grant will supplement the council's operating budget of $927,589 for the 1969 fiscal year and is to be used for comprehensive planning under the agency's Urban Planning Assistance program.

The federal allocation was received considerably from the agency's original request of $570,000 which it hoped to apply to a $1.2 million operating budget. The original request was denied, however, in $25,000, an amount which the Gateway Council members said would put the agency "out of business" if it were permitted to stand.

Subsequent meetings were held in Washington with HUD officials who agreed to upgrade the grant to the better of 9% per capita contribution from the communities served by the state board.

Local governments will contribute $106,000 toward the budget, the better of 9% per capita contribution from the communities served by the body. The State of Illinois will contribute $8000 and the State of Missouri $25,000.

The Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan Area Planning Commission will contribute $16,600 toward an airport study.

Most of the balance is invested in U.S. treasury bills.

Unpaid Personal Property Taxes 'Bug' County Board

A proposal to study various methods used in the state in collecting delinquent personal property taxes was made by Marshall Smith, assistant state's attorney, at a meeting of the Madison county board of supervisors Wednesday.

The proposal came after some criticism was received of a previous proposal to hire an outside collection agency to collect the back taxes.

Letters were sent to all members of the county board and to treasurer of all taxing bodies seeking approval for a plan or suggestions for a plan or method to collect the taxes.

It included an offer by Paul Meyer of the St. Clair agency, which holds a contract to collect delinquent real estate taxes in the county, to conduct a survey of the property tax base to see if it was not more than 50%.

Granite City council members criticized the proposal as being too expensive to try to collect bills in small amounts, and that some residents, especially those living in trailers, Italy refuse to pay personal property taxes.

Walter S. Park, Chouteau township supervisor, noted that his township reportedly was $41,000 behind in personal property taxes, and favored an immediate contract with Meyer.

He said that families in Chouteau, in his township, have refused to pay the taxes though they have been sending several children to the public schools.

He called for a committee of property owners who pay taxes to meet and asked all township officials to urge their taxing bodies to approve the contracting plan.

He said some taxing bodies have agreed to the proposal, but others, including the Granite City and Madison councils, have turned it down.

Two members of the county board who will be up for re-election in April have voiced disapproval.

Madison County Federal Assets Up 14.8% in 1968

A. H. Froehling, president of the Madison County Federal Savings and Loan Association, announced an increase of $1,512,633 representing a gain of 14.8% during the past year, the association's annual meeting Wednesday afternoon at the association offices, 3214 Nameoki road.

Total savings at year's end stood at $10,355,746 compared to $9,217,113 recorded for the first mortgage loans and other first loans on real estate amounted to $10,389,000, compared to $8,843,923 at the end of 1967.

General reserves and individual reserves are important measures of the stability of a savings and loan association, Froehling said, were increased by $93,366.

At the three-year-and-figure total assets, savings loans plus reserves and undivided profits represent new, all time record highs for Madison County Federal Savings and Loan Association, he added.

Another record also was set in dividends paid to savers during 1968. A total of $468,529 was paid to passbook and certificate customers.

In addition to Froehling, officers of Madison County Federal include A. F. Buente Jr., vice-president; C. P. Speckert, secretary-treasurer, and N. L. Jackson, assistant secretary.

Froehling reported the election of the association's new board of directors for the coming year. They are A. F. Buente Jr., Ralph Y. Champion, Robert B. Dunlap, Froehling, Ernest L. Hopkins, John L. Parker, W. C. Thompson, John P. Reese and Gilbert Rouch.

In looking ahead to 1969, Froehling forecast "a continuation of the competition for savings and investment dollars, but continued rapid growth for Madison County Federal based on a popular selection of profitable savings programs probably administered by the association's staff."

Legion of Merit Award for Col. Hoskin During Farewell Ceremony at Army Depot

A farewell ceremony and open house reception were held Tuesday afternoon at the Granite City Army Depot here for Colonel Charles E. Hoskin III, retiring commander of the Granite City Army Depot.

During the afternoon's festivities, a planned program included a formation and review of troops, sound off by the band, presentation of trophies and certificates of achievement.

Major Gen. Clarence J. Lang, Chief of Staff of U. S. Army Materiel Command from Washington, D. C., presented Col. Hoskin with the coveted Legion of Merit award during a presentation ceremony.

Other Awards

Other awards include the Madison County Savings Bonds Committee, which was presented by Henry D. Kandjeff, general chairman of the Madison County Savings Bonds Committee, who cited Col. Hoskin's leadership in promoting of the U. S. Savings Bonds program and the payroll savings plan in this area. Kandjeff said the award is one of the highest state awards presented in southern Illinois in the past 27 years.

Harry C. Wood, deputy director, U. S. Treasury Department, presented the colonel with an Eagle Award Certificate on behalf of the Secretary of the Treasury in recognition of "bold, creative and imaginative efforts to promote the sale of U. S. Savings and Freedom Shares."

The Tri-Cities Chamber of Commerce presented the retiring commander with a certificate for outstanding participation in community affairs.

Copiers with Banners

Decorative banners held by the colonel's wife and family were over the depot with banners inscribed with "Farewell Col. Hoskin." One of the LARC amphibious machine was decorated for the occasion for the Depot Queen, Miss Linda Whistler, and her court who held large cards with letters produced by the copier. "We love Hoskin," The colonel's young son, Charles E. Hoskin IV, took part in the ceremony from the Queen's village party.

Col. Hoskin spoke to the large group of military personnel and civilian workers and a number of local businessmen, recalling his many years in this area, as a military man and participant in many civic and social affairs.

He arrived at the Depot on Nov. 15, 1967, and will end his duties there this month.

An open house reception was held immediately following the outdoor program. Col. Hoskin's wife and family will continue to reside on the Depot grounds as he will be assigned to the U. S. Army Mobility Equipment Command in St. Louis. His new assignment began on Wednesday.

Graves Resigns State Development Post

Gene H. Graves, director of business and development department of the city of Moline, announced Wednesday at Springfield that he is leaving the state post to return to the Southwestern Campus, Southern Illinois University, as assistant to President Delyle W. Morris.

Graves, who has been director of the department since 1963, was on leave of absence from the university. He had been at the SW campus as coordinator of the department of community development.

He is to be succeeded in the state office by Raymond C. Dickerson of Champaign, who takes over Monday.

Council Still Picking Polling Places for Feb. 11 Primary

Granite City council members took steps Tuesday night to set up new city voting precincts in the revamped seven wards in time for the Feb. 11 primary election.

The task is not expected to be completed until next week as polling places were not presented for all seven wards. Tuesday's special meeting was called to make a 10-23 deadline for publication of the new polling places for the city's first municipal primary in over two decades.

City Atty. Leon Scroggins explained the new state law governing city elections and how voters would be registered, and he added that the city could designate the various polling places in the wards without pinpointing actual city precinct boundaries.

Council members decided they would proceed with outlining the new city precinct boundaries for the Feb. 11 primary election. In hopes voters would become acquainted with the new precincts for the aldermanic election on April 1.

Alternate Plan Rejected

One move, made by Alderman Parmley, was for the city to use the same seven wards for precincts for the city-wide primary, but it was pointed out in the new city ward boundaries in a number of cases cut through lines of the township precincts. "You have to vote in the ward in which you live," Nonn proclaimed.

Parmley argued that using the 32 township precincts for the primary would not be a hardship for both voters and the election judges in the polling places. He said in the Sixth Ward the regular three precincts would stand.

In the Second Ward, it was brought out, there are parts of nine township precincts and not one complete precinct.

Alderman Moen commented, "Why it's the fact that half the people in Granite City don't know what ward they live in."

The city redistricted its eight wards under a court order in November and reduced the number of wards to seven.

Confusion . . . and Columbus

Murphy, in stressing the uncertainty of the new boundaries, told Granite City voters in recent township elections, added, "It reminds me of the story of Christopher Columbus."

"When he was sailing, he traveled west across the ocean to find a place to land.

Seminar Planned Friday For Livestock Producers

Livestock producers in the area are being encouraged to attend a seminar "Upfront of Foreign Animal Diseases" at the National Stockyards Amphitheater tomorrow from 10 a.m. to 2:30 p.m., it was announced this week by Warren V. Bundy, Madison county extension agent.

The program, according to Dr. Frank Bartley, federal veterinarian, is designed to interest Madison county dairymen, swine producers and hog raisers.

Most of the world today, he noted, is plagued with serious livestock diseases. "The U.S. enjoys freedom from Foot and Mouth Disease, Rinderpest, Lujugous pleuro-pneumonia, African swine fever and other foreign diseases."

Bartley reports, "We have been successful in recent years in ridding ourselves of rabies, bovine and hog cholera. Complete eradication is now in sight. But due to the rapid transportation in this jet age, this country is very vulnerable to foreign livestock diseases."

"Last year England suffered a disastrous outbreak of Foot and Mouth disease. It was finally brought under control through strict means and the assistance of veterinarians from other countries."

Featured Speakers

Featured speakers at the seminar at the Stockyards will be Drs. Donald Miller, Norvan Meyer and Euclid Sharpen of the U.S. Department of Agriculture, Washington. D.C. These veterinarians have worked in several foreign countries in successful eradication programs and will explain the effect of foreign diseases on livestock production and the procedures used in eradication.

State veterinarians will participate in a discussion of the diseases and plans to cope with eradication of the diseases once they occur.

Dr. Paul Doby, Illinois state veterinarian, will serve as program chairman at the seminar.

Illinois' rabies law requires annual vaccination of all dogs not specifically at first and annually after. Farmers dogs frequently come in contact with foxes, skunks, raccoons and other wild animals that may carry rabies. Have your pet vaccinated to protect it and your family.

There were 15 cases of positive rabies reported in Illinois during the past two months. Four of the cases were in Madison county. One case was in DuPage county. Other cases in the state involved bats, skunks and cats.

Don't bathe your dog too often, says Dr. Doby.

Bathing removes natural oils from the dog's skin and coat, making skin dry and itchy.

Unless your dog's coat becomes crusty, one bath about every two months is sufficient. Frequent brushing, however, removes dirt and helps keep the skin and coat healthy.

Home Economist Starting Program At Alton State

Mrs. Catherine Mauck, home economist with the Cooperative Home Economics Extension Service of the University of Illinois, has recently developed a program of homemaking skills, which will be a part of the therapeutic program for clients of the Madison County Day Care Home. This will be the pilot program. Mrs. Mauck instructed homemaking skills classes for clients during November. The staff of the hospital felt the training in homemaking incorporated into the therapy program due to the interest and enthusiasm of the clients involved.

Need Volunteers

At least six volunteer workers are needed to carry out the homemaking classes.

Mrs. Marjorie Dintemann, volunteer coordinator at the hospital, said Mrs. Mauck developed the idea of volunteers on Jan. 27, in order to equip them to continue the program. The class will meet at Alton State one day a week for eight weeks. Those interested in becoming a Rotarian may contact Mrs. Dintemann at her office in the hospital.

Rotary Program On Inter-Act Club

Rotarians had as their guests and program guest speakers members of the Inter-act Club, at their noon luncheon meeting, Tuesday at the YMCA.

The mayor, in his "Monthly Report to the Citizens," pointed out that in recent years, Granite City has received $9,968,952 in federal, state and county funds for various city improvements.

Text of the mayor's report follows:

"One of the many objectives of your mayor has been to keep the public informed of the goals and accomplishments of the city government. To the average citizen, city government is measured in terms of the service he receives.

"I was elected as a full time mayor and am spending $10,000 per year on this project.

Today there are Inter-act clubs in 60 countries. These young people are most generally outstanding students in their local high schools and are dedicated to the same ideals as the Rotarians.

Raymond Ruffer serves as the local club's advisor, and the young people have resume of his work with the club and the individual members.

Warren Decatur announced the board meeting would be held on Tuesday, Jan. 21, at 7:30 p.m. at Hillside Apartments, 1000 W. Main, instead of the date of Jan. 15 as previously given.

Press-Record Youth Focus

Article by GCHS Student in State History Magazine

An article by Miss Janet Geiger, a student at Granite City high school, is featured in the January issue of Illinois History magazine, a publication for teenagers sponsored by the Illinois State Historical Society. Title of the issue is "Museums in Illinois."

A junior at GCHS, she is the daughter of John and Linda Geiger, 1613 Lindell Blvd.

Her article, entitled "Elsah's Dolls," relates that "on the Mississippi River between the towns of Alton and Grafton lies the small community of Elsah, a town founded in 1853, it is the Little Stone House, a museum of dolls and toys.

"Although the Little Stone House is not a historical landmark, it contains the history of people depicted through dolls. The dolls, whether they made stick dolls of the stone age or the fine china dolls of the nine-teenth century, have been a part of every civilization throughout time. Dolls tell the story of the people of the world through their facial expressions and through their clothes.

"The Little Stone House was originally a three-story ice house, with two stories underground.

"It was built in 1857 and later was changed into a post office and finally was bought by Mr. and Mrs. Howard Trovillion of Alton as their home. Mrs. Trovillion now uses the building as a museum.

"Dolls that represent historical figures provide a useful way to interest children in his-tory.

"The museum has a prominent display of the Mississippi River explorers of 1673, Father Marquette and Louis Joliet, with their most valuable possessions, released in detail.

"Father Marquette holds a Bible symbolizing his mission, and Joliet carries a knife, which was vital to the survival of an explorer.

"Mrs. Trovillion calls the front half of the original building the Illinois Room. All of the antique furniture in the room was made in Illinois. The hand organ came from Chicago

No-Holds-Barred Meet Held at MacMurray

A conference rather than a confrontation was the response of 122-year old MacMurray College to the expected "year of unrest" on the nation's campuses.

The result was fully as exciting as a confrontation and it involved virtually every student, teacher, administrator, and trustee in a three-day no-holds-barred think-think-and-action session.

Several immediate results came from the meeting. A new code of conduct for students' records has been implemented. Disciplinary records of students will be kept separate from academic records, and will be released only by written permission of the student.

Rooms have been established with each student responsible for the health and maintenance of his or her own room. Authoritative lectures on birth control and effects of drugs by physician and other specialists have been approved.

Students will also be represented on many major committees dealing directly with student needs, including the selection and policy committee of the admissions office.

and the series from Vandals.

"To add to the atmosphere, many small, decorative items are placed around the rooms.

"These include kerosene lamps, fluted china; a "Saturn" scope, showing three-dimensional scenes of the solar system; dolls given as wedding gifts in the 1800s; and, of course, dolls of the present era.

"The oldest doll in Mrs. Trovillion's vast collection is her Queen Elizabeth doll, which was made in 1640 in England.

"The value of a doll is determined by its rarity throughout the world. A French Bratz doll of 1860 is Mrs. Trovillion's rarest.

On the whole, German dolls are more expensive than those made in France, because the German dolls are more plentiful.

"Of course, the value of any doll depends on who it is loved by a small child. Who can measure love?

"According to many collectors, Mrs. Trovillion has the largest collection of dolls in the Midwest. Because of her dolls, a visit to the Little Stone House is like a visit into the past."

State Board Considers Law School for SIU

The State Board of Higher Education probably will receive recommendations in the next few months regarding the establishment of a law school at Southern Illinois University's Carbondale campus.

The board's eleven-man Committee on Legal Education (Committee "U") is studying the law school situation throughout the entire state, according to State Pressman Government Milt Turner, who is a member of the special committee.

Morris Library's holdings in the field of law played an important role in Chairman Robert E. Johnson's law school proposal to the committee this past September.

The Carbondale campus library now has all of the volumes recommended by the Association of American Law Schools, and the holdings far exceed the minimum recommendations in a number of categories. The library has all of the basic treatises in law, both English and, with one exception, all federal and state reports. Both the English and the Canadian collections are growing rapidly.

Southern Illinois University sponsors a special co-operative publications project which studies and compiles works of the university.

Tri-H-Y Girls, Mothers Hear Talk on Drug Use

Four representatives from NARCO Inc. (Narcotics Addicts Rehabilitation Community Organization), an agency dedicated to helping people who have become drug dependents, visited the local Tri-H-Y Club this past week.

The evening program, which attracted 23 girls and their mothers, was sponsored by the Phi Eta Pi which also invited members of the Alpha Phlias.

Following a short presentation by each of the four men on the panel the program was opened to the audience for questions. The audience participation lasted for more than one and a half hours.

Orital Drugs

It was stated by the panel that there are several places in Granite City alone where teenagers may go to obtain drugs.

"This statement did not appear to shock very many of the girls who were in the audience," according to Chuck Hesse, "Y" youth director who was in attendance.

"But many of the parents seemed somewhat alarmed that this could possibly happen in Granite City."

Quite often drugs are being pushed by a "bad apple" who has found a supplier, it was pointed out. Most "pushers" are at work only for financial gain and they will move.

Question of Squealing

One question which received a great deal of attention during the evening was—"Whether I should 'squeal' if I know someone who is a 'user' or a 'pusher'?"

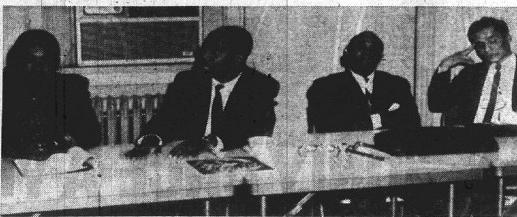

The panel had varying view points on this subject.

Some conclusions which were reached included—"Q) If you squeal, do so anonymously, so you won't be discovered; P) Don't give it to the 'Taker,' the 'pusher,' and to society to help steer these people back in the right direction. We have a moral obligation."

One of the men on the panel had been released from prison within the last 60 days after having a long bout with drug addiction. He said he was going to dedicate his life to helping other people "kick the habit" of drug abuse, drug habitation, and drug addiction.

Drug Costs

"One frightening statistic

TWENTY-THREE GIRLS and their mothers attending the panel discussion on drug addiction held recently at the YMCA and sponsored by the Phi Eta Pi Tri-H-Y Club.

which was discussed was that "Y" on Jan. 30 for a session one drug addict costs his society with the fathers and sons, all about $30,000 a year in thefts interested fathers and sons of alone." This does not include the tremendous cost of detection, prosecution, incarceration or hospitalization, it was pointed out.

This was one of the most educational and rewarding programs that I have ever had the opportunity to attend," Hesse said. "It is programs like this that make our club program worthwhile."

Oboe, Piano Recital Set Sunday at SIU-SW

Castonik, St. Louis oboist, will be presented in a recital at Southern Illinois University-Southwestern campus at 3:30 p.m. in the Communications building theater.

Assisting him at the piano will be Renate Premer of SIU-SW's music department who has studied extensively in both the U. S. and Europe as a concert pianist.

Sonik will play first Georg Philipp Telemann's seven-movement "Parlata No. 5 in E Minor," followed by a sonata for oboe alone by Hans Erich Apose.

The remaining works to be performed by the former Louis Sympathique principal oboist and Premer include three sonatas written for oboe and piano: one by Gunther Schuler; one by Saint-Saens; and concluding the program, the French Poulenec sonata written in 1962 in memory of Prokofieff.

This concert is a presentation of the fine arts division and is open to the public without charge.

Group Seeks to Remove 'Boegey Man' from Physics

College and high school students in the state faced with the task of tackling courses in physics may have cause to rejoice, according to findings at the regional meeting of the Illinois State Physics Project held Saturday at Southern Illinois University-Southwestern campus.

According to the group, composed of secondary school administrators, counselors, and teachers of physics and physical science, emphasis will be put on making physics "a truly attractive and exciting experience for students and a wide variety of interests and abilities."

This decision comes as a result of the noticeable decline in students who enroll in physics. According to the group, students who have chosen physics either because they think it will be too difficult, or because they think it will not be relevant for non-physics students.

Weller contended, the student myth that students in physics have to be math whizzes, the group stated, as less emphasis will be put on memorizing formulas.

The transition to the new approach will not be an easy task for teachers accustomed to the former one, according to Steven G. Sanders, chairman of the physics department.

However, Sanders stated, the major concern is reversing the trend of declining enrollments in physics.

The group has also planned summer institutes in physics to promote the new approach and seek further information.

Five Weeks Left To Get '69 State License Plates

A little less than five weeks now remain for Illinois motorists to get their 1969 license plates on vehicles, time consuming construction models with amazing accuracy.

He was selected postmaster of Madison post office when he retired. His artistic work was not a part of his assignment, but now, at 70 years of age Franklin is doing what he likes to do.

Midnight Saturday, Feb. 15, is the deadline for getting the new plates on the vehicles he said, emphasizing that merely having applied for the plates or even carrying them inside the license will not be compliance with the deadline requirement.

Motorists being urged to submit their applications with out delay, since processing time and third class mail may result in an interval of two or three weeks between receipt of the application and delivery of the plates.

Plates may be purchased over the counter at Secretary of State's office facilities in Springfield, Champaign, the Granite City Trust and Savings Bank and the First Granite City National Bank.

Scale Model Bridge Building Mastered by PO Retiree

By Sidney M. Harris

Walter Franklin is a highly retired postman who in 1961 spent 47 years in the postal service, he has occupied his leisure time constructing models with amazing accuracy.

He was selected postmaster of Madison post office when he retired. His artistic work was not a part of his assignment, but now, at 70 years of age Franklin is doing what he likes to do.

Take a look at the McKinley Bridge—designed in 1910. Fifty-five pieces to assemble, he scaled it by estimate and finished the project in 40 hours.

Scale Down Work

Ordinarily Franklin does not start a project until he has all necessary parts, tools, then begins work in his basement, he scales it down to preferred size.

Now living at 4242 Edgewood avenue, St. Louis, he has constructed models of subjects from acrylic, Ill., where he was born to Fenton, Mo., his summer home.

Franklin's most outstanding model is the likeness of Bethesda, Md., located on Birch blvd., in Pine Lawn, Md. On a scale of eight feet to the inch, and 80 hours of his time, the brick church—modeled in pine wood—was finished, including electric lights, pews, pulpit and lectern.

A picture taken from a record was the basis from which

McKINLEY BRIDGE REPLICA made by W. A. Franklin, "retired assistant postmaster of Madison, who spent 40 hours building the detailed model."

Franklin built his model of the church attended by Red Foley, Even Soring, Casper.

One can understand his construction of a model of the Madison post office and federal building—his working home for 47 years. Looking through one of his windows, one can see sorting cases and other working equipment used by employees in moving the mails, all scaled six feet to the inch.

Recently, a contractor asked Franklin to build a model of his home, saying, "I can build $50,000 homes, but I can't do windows and doors."

In his shop, Franklin has turned out 65 models since he retired, plus filling the quantity demands for such items as the seven-foot model of the clown knick-knack holder.

A wishing well; ferris wheel; carnival swinging chairs and lawn swing.

Granite City Chapter of the National Association of Retired Civil Employees, has displayed some of his models at chapter meetings.

In one of the cabinets in Franklin's home, arranged on shelves are such models as the Franklin Home at 1639 Fourth street in Madison; another Franklin home at 1637 Fourth street, Madison; a horse drawn street car; a television; and a grandfather clock.

A modern bedroom; a Kennedy rocker; a sewing rocker; the family home six miles north of Carlyle, Ill., where Franklin was born; a memory chair; cedar cabin; Franklin's summer cabin in Fenton; the Franklin residence, 4242 Edgewood.

Illinois Has Fewer Nuisance Taxes; U. S. Refunds Less Than Average

(State Chamber of Commerce Tax Department)

The Illinois state tax structure may be better or worse than those of other states, but it is certainly different.

Illinois relies more heavily on sales and utility taxes than other states. It does not have an income tax. And it relies less on minor tax sources.

Closely examining Illinois sources of revenue at the state level alone and not including the total complex of local, state and federal government, the state collected a little less than $700 million taxes in 1957. By 1968, this doubled to almost $1,400,000,000.

The largest single tax source in both years was the state sales-type tax, which more than doubled.

All other taxes, including gasoline and various license and cigarette taxes, have increased—except the utility tax, the economic heritage taxes and inheritance taxes.

Illinois is collecting twice as much revenue from its taxes as the same sources did a decade ago.

Increases in the economy and increases in rates and tax base account for the increase in tax dollars collected.

How do Illinoisans compare to other states? For purposes of example, we will use a composite average of all states.

Illinois derives nearly half of its revenue from the sales tax. A little more than one-quarter of a typical state's revenue comes from sales tax.

Illinois receives a little less than most states from Fire laddies of Illinois' agents of Granite City this week for the annual convention included M. S. Cook, Canton; Albert Herrin, Murphysboro; J. B. Brink, Woodstock; R. Hermann, Forest Park; J. A. Wesch, Arcola; and P. E. The delegates adopted a resolution praising local firemen, and the 1920 meeting for Murphysboro.

Over $150,000 in increased wages retroactive to June 1918 were paid to employees of the Corn Products Refining Co., based on a War Labor Board decision.

Outlook--More Home Rule, Recognition of Initiative and Service, Chance to Chart Own Course in Life

(Second of two articles by Richard M. Nixon, on the eve of his inauguration as 37th President, dealing with the American spirit—the "spirit of '76"—and its application to current issues.)

We must find a way to make government work for all of us without dominating any one of us.

We have to establish new respects for the qualities of initiative, personal merit and achievement to seize opportunities that made the individual American the wonder of the world.

As we have to reawaken this respect, they have to do without tearing down the structure we have built to help those who cannot help themselves.

That is why a political promise of "more of the same" is wrong, and why a promise of "less of the same" is also wrong. We need neither more nor less of the "same"—we need an approach that is entirely new.

Welfare is too important to be left to the Welfare States. We are going to change our welfare system to make it fit the American system, to provide each person with a means of escape from welfare into dignity.

This is not an impossible dream. America needs it: with leadership that understands the American spirit, America is going to get it.

And that's not all. Each of us wants to get back that sense of participation in government, in our own destinies.

We are going to reverse the flow of power to the federal government in Washington, and channel more power back to the states and localities.

Like shooting birds in flight, we are going to loosen up; community participation; that is the direction I believe America must choose.

What's more, the pendulum is going to swing back to an Opportunity, Satisfaction Ahead if Illinoisans Meet Their Individual Duties as Citizens

Governor Richard B. Ogilvie's great inaugural address promised no easy answers but indicated good goals—"to enlarge the opportunities and satisfactions of life in Illinois"—as he called for great citizen involvement in seeking "the Illinois of tomorrow."

Our 35th chief executive put his finger on the central problem of life in 1969, "the gap between what we believe and what we have achieved," saying:

"Because of scientific change, we can defy age and disease and the heavens. We can fly into space, yet often it takes longer to cross our cities. We can build miraculous computing machines, yet we are failing in our attempt to bring education to all our children. Our minds form concepts of limitless extent, yet we must grope to find solutions to crime."

Just as such problems involve people, individuals can find answers if they give the task more attention, thought and energy. In the words of the governor, "Let our actions be based always on respect for individual dignity. Let us rededicate ourselves to individual responsibility and to individual responsibility, the great human developers."

One element of the self-discipline necessary to turn failure into success, Gov. Ogilvie stressed is that "we must put an end to the habit of complacency." Ourselves and the rest of the state. This dichotomy has cost dearly in wasted bitterness and squandered effort.

Part of the solution involves a new constitution, a once-in-a-century feat hard to accomplish but worth striving for. As he said, it is a "unique and important opportunity" to "create a new document which will help us achieve present and future goals." The constitutional convention can write a new document that will live and grow, and provide a rational basis for fair taxation and fiscal responsibility."

Another part of the solution is in the hands of those elected in November. His perspective, however, was that "our government must be reorganized to become a management tool for accomplishment. It must be sharpened to become the agent for constructive change instead of the custodian of an accumulation of separate and unresponsible agencies and programs. There is no use in trifling the boxes around an organization chart; Illinois began in Washington and quarrels with its own citizens."

The objective of attainment instead of excuses, progress rather than frustration and decay, is lofty but well within the reach of a positive approach. Under the governor's leadership, Illinois can be transformed if we as individuals help make it happen.

Restoration of Citizenship Rights

(Tri-City and Illinois Bar Associations)

How can a person regain the right of citizenship he loses if he is convicted of an infamous crime in Illinois?

He may petition the governor of the state for the restoration of at least some of his rights he loses upon conviction.

They are fearful of the future, fearful of the changes it will bring, and they brace themselves for the shock that they will come.

In the eyes of the fearful, tomorrow is a threat that must be faced. In the eyes of the hopeful, tomorrow is a vision that must be realized.

An American demands it this way: "Live for dreams, or a slogan may topple you." We must turn away from the old slogan that trigger responses that are not real.

We must live for the dreams we can make come true.

The way to the future is not along the path of least resistance, but only earn back our personal freedom along a path of great resistance.

The American spirit is persisting, like a seed; demanding a long, slow germination; community participation; that is the direction I believe America must choose.

Simultaneous Patrols By Four Madison Police Cars During Peak Crime Hours

Use of one-man patrols cars is enabling Madison police to have many more four cruisers (including one with a police dog) in operation during peak crime hours, a step that should afford increased protection for the public.

Probably few communities can provide as many patrols in relation to the size of the area served.

There are disadvantages in an officer operating alone, but improvements within the department and with other departments have minimized such dangers. As noted by federal authorities, eventually every officer in the U. S. may see his effectiveness and safety enhanced under use of a patrol car.

An additional step that still identifies city council action is revision of tavern hours to more nearly conform to those in other cities and the unincorporated area. The virtually all-night activity in Madison, luring revelers from out-of-town, undoubtedly adds to the overall law enforcement burden.

Life is a series of hurdles for those who have a habit of jumping at conclusions.

'Back to the Drawing Boards' For Those Who Took the Illinois Courts 'Out of Politics'

Amid all the talk of cooperation between Illinois' conglomerate officialdom (three Democrats and three Republicans won statewide office last November in their own right), Attorney General Scott (R.), on inauguration day filed a suit against State Auditor State Powell (D) and Auditor Howlett (D).

It seeks to block the outgoing governor's eleventh-hour appointment of 11 circuit and associate circuit judges; Powell ordinarily would administer the oaths of office and Howlett would preside over them.

At first glance, the suit might seem to herald an early start of "feuding, fussing and fighting" in the official family. However, there may be a silver lining.

There is no doubt that political rivalry is involved, of course. Most of those appointed are Democrats, including Scott's election opponent. If the appointments are prevented, the Republicans probably will be able to fill the vacancies.

Even the basic question, whether the governor can act without receiving Illinois Supreme Court notification that vacancies exist, presents such a conflict; the former governor is Democratic and the GOP has control of the high court. Why it did not issue the notice has not been answered.

But regardless of the outcome, there may be a net gain for the public in that whatever eventual settlement will have a clearer right to the positions.

The appointments were made under a 1967 law extending such power to the governor. As even laymen are aware, hardly any law can be made fully effective until there has been a court interpretation of its validity and intent. An in-depth analysis will follow.

The judicial review carried out in Illinois during the 1960s supposedly went a long way toward removing the courts from partisanship. Those who drafted the plan and subsequent modifying legislation ought to get back to their drawing boards—fast.

After his team won the football Super Bowl, Quarterback Joe Namath described himself as a "poor winner." Which prompts us to note that the average person finds it harder to be a good winner than a good loser; he gets so little practice.

Outlook--More Home Rule, Recognition of Initiative and Service, Chance to Chart Own Course in Life

The American spirit of today demands that the helpless be cared for and the hopeless be cared about.

It demands that there be greater rewards for initiative and hard work and self-reliance.

It demands that privacy be respected, that the individual be rewarded for his honest and upright conduct.

Most of all, the American spirit today demands the self-determination of the human being. This means a shift from federal rule to home rule, a shift from faceless manipulation to personal participation.

There is a mystery to America that its detractors have never been able to grasp.

Just when our idealism appears to be swamped in a sea of material wealth, just when our native moral fiber is torn, a third party movement, just when our international power and prestige appear frustrated by the encroachments of our leadership—something remarkable happens.

A former probationer's petition for restoration of his rights should include such details as his personal history; whether he is a native-born or naturalized citizen; the facts of his offense; the date of his offense; the term of court; the date he was granted probation; and the names of the judges, among other details.

Also, he must obtain from the probation officer a statement as to whether he violated any of the probation conditions.

Attached are two signed copies of the order of discharge from probation, obtained from the clerk of the court, and a statement from the discharging judge with his recommendation of whether the person's rights should be restored.

The petition should be addressed to the governor in m.s. and should be filed in the office of the Parole and Pardon Board, Armory Building, Springfield, Ill.

The American spirit demands an explosion of education into the mind of every child in every corner of this land.

It demands that the innocent be protected from the guilty, that the guilty be punished, that the weak be protected from the strong, that the poor be protected from the rich, that the honest be protected from the dishonest, that the decent be protected from the indecent, that the patriotic be protected from the unpatriotic, that the free be protected from the unfree.

The American spirit demands an explosion of education into

Past, Present Radicals Compared

"Intellectual Origins of American Radicalism" by Staughton Lynd, New York, Pantheon Books, 184 pages.

Reviewed by David E. Conrad, a faculty member of the Department of History of Southern Illinois University.

(Reviewed in the Daily Egyptian, SIU Department of Journalism, Carbondale.)

As the title indicates, this book attempts to trace the origins of American radicalism.

In doing so, Lynd divides early American radicals into two campes: the Quakers and the Jeffersonians and Abolitionists.

His technique is to define certain beliefs or ideas characteristic of these groups and then to illustrate with quotations from the writing of their leaders.

Suddenly, Lynd develops the theme that the New England Quakers in the Civil War insisted on the idea that wars have to be fought for just causes, and he hints that American foreign policy ever since has been plagued with what he calls the idea of "holy intervention."

In an obvious reference to the war in Vietnam, he talks of a "benevolent imperialism which insisted, as it bombarded and strafed, that it had only come to help."

Holding picked up this interesting and astounding idea, he drops it immediately, and moves off into an aimless chapter of "Conclusion" in which he attempts to link the theme of American radicalism with some very notable omissions, up to date.

To the American Revolutionaries it was reason for theistic God; for the Quakers it was revealed, personal God; for the Abolitionists it was moral conviction based on their own clear understanding of God's law.

But in either case, an understanding of the nature of their government or the current majority.

Thus, Quakers could write that "my country is the world" and that "we should not make wrong evident to the world." Charles Sumner could declare that "Christian law" requires him to disclose the Federal Plan to the South. Just as the American colonists had refused to pay the stamp tax.

This, of course, is civil disobedience, first systematically expanded by the Quakers and perhaps best stated by Thoreau.

Another characteristic of American radicals, says Lynd, was pacifism.

However, he tells of two important exceptions—the artisans of the American Revolution and the Abolitionists—when pacifists turned to violence.

To the book he traces the development of Charles Sumner from pacifist in the 1850s to supporter of the war to free the slaves in the 1860s and back to pacifist in the 1870s.

New Taxpayers Must Obtain Forms

(Internal Revenue Service)

Q. I received my tax forms in the mail but my son didn't. Why is that?

A. On joint returns the account is primarily identified by the husband's Social Security number. Therefore, file the return with your wife's name to it.

B. But we also have to enter our wife's Social Security number on the tax form.

A. Farmers subject to the tax surcharge?

Q. Yes, I can't find the W-2 form I got from my summer job. What should I do?

A. Contact your former employer and ask him for a duplicate copy of your W-2 statement.

Q. Is it true that if I have less than $100 a year in dividends I don't have to report them on my tax return?

A. All dividends you receive should be reported but generally the first $100 in dividends is not subject to tax.

A. You will only have to include in income any increase between the value of the asset at the time your father died and what you sold it for.

Q. I'm recovering from a serious illness and can no longer use public transportation to get to work. Since I no longer have to rely on taxis, can I deduct this as a medical expense?

A. Transportation expenses to and from work are considered personal expenses.

Transportation costs to the doctor or to a doctor's treatment are deductible as medical expenses, however.

Check your Form 1040 instructions on how to handle these expenses.

Farm Column

Madison County Extension Advisor

Corn Borer Count Down

Recent corn borer counts reveal a slight drop of 42% European corn borer larvae in each 100 corn stalks in Madison county, compared with 90 borers per 100 stalks a year ago.

That is nearly twice the average for the state, which is 22 borers per 100 stalks.

Steve Morris, University of Illinois entomologist, says the borer population in the state is the highest now that it has been since 1963. "The red flag is up for the entire state next year," Morris said.

Several farmers in Madison county found more corn borer damage at harvest time this year than they are willing to tolerate.

Corn borers over-winter as larvae (worms) inside corn stalks. They pupate in May and emerge as adults in late May and early June. Egg-laying begins four or five days after emergence. Treatment time for first generation corn borer control is about June 15, with the exact date depending on the egg hatch and the "tassel ratio." The number of borers present has a bearing on whether treatment is necessary.

June is Lesson Time

Several Madison county farmers need to learn next June how to identify early warning masses on corn leaves and how to determine the tassel ratio.

Second generation corn borer moths lay eggs in late June. Once again, early warning indicators need for treatment. With second generation borers, treatment should be made just as soon as eggs hatch.

Fast Pace of Language--14,000 New Words in Dictionary

The English language seems to be undergoing what might be called a linguistic explosion. Dictionary editors are hard-pressed to keep up with it. For instance, the 1969 edition of one dictionary contains 14,000 words and phrases that were not in the 1968 edition. Editors had to add 150 pages to jam in all the new words.

But where do the new words come from? How could editors find 14,000 new entries? Did that many new words develop in such a short time?

It seems as though forming new words is everybody's business—the politician, the scientist, the economist, the fashion designer, the man on the street, and of course, the teenager.

Diazinon and Sevin' as liquid or granules will be recommended next year for corn borer control. Correctly used, either insecticide will give 90% control of corn borers.

In Madison county the 425 borers per 100 stalks means there are more than 6000 borers per acre. About 99% will be killed by either chipping, stem digging, plowing, predators and parasites. But the few hundred remaining per acre can be enough to cause a real problem.

We can say now that treatment will probably be needed next year. We can say the situation is such that we need to do some close checking next June and to see whether treatment is needed. Each field will have to be evaluated.

Monitoring Content Study

Such samples will be analyzed for possible pesticide content. Highly sensitive equipment permits pesticides to be detected down to the level of parts per million in soil and crops, and parts per billion in water.

Such monitoring to assess the use of pesticides in agriculture in crops and soils is well accepted by farmers. If we are doing anything wrong with the use of pesticides, we want to know about it and correct it immediately. But we want decisions to be based on scientific facts—not on speculation.

Information about pesticides is coming along quickly to provide a basis for determining any changes that may be needed: pest control recommendations, cropping practices, and registration of pesticides.

The recent official report of a United States Senate committee concluded from an intensive study that "There is no evidence that chemical pest control products constitute a hazard to human life or that animal life has been significantly jeopardized." It did indicate, however, that there can be no relaxation of the program of extreme care and caution in the use and application of pesticides.

1968 Corn Crop

Seventy-eight percent of the 1968 corn in Illinois was planted with four-row planters, according to the Crop Reporting Service. Five percent was planted with six-row planters, four percent with eight-row planters, and three percent with two-row planters. Trends show six-row and eight-row planters increasing in numbers.

Average width between corn rows was 37.6 inches in 1968, compared with 38.8 inches average three years ago.

Seventeen percent of the corn was drilled this year, and 30% was hill-dropped.

Entomology is a fascinating 4-H club project that may be taken by boys and girls in the city as well as on the farm. Many insects have four stages of growth—egg, larva, pupa and adult.

—The corn borer has four instars. The corn borer larva changes from one instar to another by shedding its skin. This usually occurs within a few minutes and is accompanied by very rapid growth.

Persons who for the first time see a larva change into a pupa are amazed at what it seems. It's almost unbelievable.

And from the pupa emerges the winged adult—also a sight to behold.

Government scientists collected data on corn and crops recently in Madison county as part of a nation-wide pesticide monitoring program.

The scientist gave us endorsements. The economist came up with microeconomics and macroeconomics and the fashion designers, bless them, came up with minidress and miniskirt.

The man on the street and the volatile teen-ager gave us language with slang. That's chintz fest, which means just sitting down and talking, saying what you mean. And there are fud, gud, and gudness.

Most of these words and phrases have been around for a long time, of course, as slang or argot. But now that they're official, they're official.

Persons who for the first time see a larva change into a pupa are amazed at what it seems. It's almost unbelievable.

And from the pupa emerges the winged adult—also a sight to behold.

Government scientists collected data on corn and crops recently in Madison county as part of a nation-wide pesticide monitoring program.

Such samples will be analyzed for possible pesticide content. Highly sensitive equipment permits pesticides to be detected down to the level of parts per million in soil and crops, and parts per billion in water.

Such monitoring to assess the use of pesticides in agriculture in crops and soils is well accepted by farmers. If we are doing anything wrong with the use of pesticides, we want to know about it and correct it immediately. But we want decisions to be based on scientific facts—not on speculation.

Information about pesticides is coming along quickly to provide a basis for determining any changes that may be needed: pest control recommendations, cropping practices, and registration of pesticides.

The recent official report of a United States Senate committee concluded from an intensive study that "There is no evidence that chemical pest control products constitute a hazard to human life or that animal life has been significantly jeopardized." It did indicate, however, that there can be no relaxation of the program of extreme care and caution in the use and application of pesticides.

County Corn Crop Average Down

Corn in Madison county averaged 74 bushels per acre in 1968, compared with 96 bushels in 1967 and 81 bushels in 1966, according to the Illinois Cooperative Crop Reporting Service.

Soybeans averaged 28 bushels per acre in 1968, compared with 32 bushels in 1967 and 25 bushels in 1966.

State averages of 89 bushels of corn per acre and 31.5 bushels of soybeans per acre are expected for 1969.

Crop yields in Madison county were lower in 1968 partly because 1967 was an exceptionally favorable crop year and record yields were produced in 1967. Adverse conditions in 1968, including early dryness, corn tasseling time, and a wet Spring which resulted in late planting and poor stands in many fields.

William Henrich, New Douglas, said he expected a good dairy herd in the Weigh-A-Day-A-Month program last year. His herd of 41 cow-years averaged 17,377 pounds of milk per cow.

Average yield the 12 herds in the county was 14,816 pounds of milk per cow.

Dairymen in WADAM weigh the milk produced by each cow one day each month. Records are taken at the WADAM extension office. Such records are not official, but they are helpful to the dairymen. They provide to him the milk production record for each cow.

Stagnating Air Mass Tests State's Emergency Program

The first major test of the Illinois State Air Pollution Control Board's emergency program to reduce the public health effects of extreme pollution conditions ended early this week after a 24-hour coverage of monitoring equipment in Granite City, Alton, River and East St. Louis, Clarence, W. Kinnickinnic and St. Clair counties and parts of the St. Louis metropolitan area.

A red alert was called when a product value of 3.0 is equalled or exceeded for 12 hours, together with a forecast of stagnating air for the following 12 hours. At the red alert, certain commercial and industrial operations previously designated as potential sources of pollutants would be requested to cease emissions of these contaminants.

Klassen said that while pollution concentrations did not reach levels at which the board would declare a yellow alert, certain conditions have worsened and that all necessary activities, including non-essential automobile driving and backyard incineration should be curtailed.

Klassen pointed out that the warning and control system is intended to protect the public from unusually high levels of air pollution which persist for more than a few hours.

The meteorological phenomenon that contributes to the development of these conditions occurs rather infrequently and is known as a high pressure air mass. The system was developed to the basis of evidence that there is a greater effect on health from combinations of particulates and sulphur dioxide from either individual or combined pollutant levels.

Engineers Check Monitors

Board staff engineers were dispatched to the monitoring stations in Granite City near the main fire station, Wood River, Alton, East St. Louis, St. Clair and East St. Louis.

Monitors remain on duty 24 hours telephoning measurements of sulphur dioxide, particulate matter and wind speed and velocity to engineers in the board's central offices in Springfield. At the board offices continuous planning was in effect for notifying industry to cut back emissions if the conditions reached certain alert levels.

The watch procedure is initiated under state board regulations when a yellow alert is forecasted and the combined value of sulphur dioxide and particulate concentrations equal or exceed a value of 1.0 for four consecutive hours.

A yellow alert was called at the East St. Louis city hall station at 6 p.m. last Saturday and values of 1.3 and 1.2 were reached at the same location between 7 and 8 a.m. Sunday, Klassen reported.

A yellow alert is called when the product value reaches 2.0 for four consecutive hours. The yellow alert procedure calls for the general public to be informed through the news media and requested to reduce non-essential use of automobiles and to stop all backyard incin-

Robin in Backyard

At Palmer Avenue Home

Mrs. Nettie Holt, 2516 Palmer avenue, telephoned the Press-Record Tuesday afternoon to say she had just seen a Robin in her backyard.

"The temperature is too balmy," Mrs. Holt said, "but maybe this means spring weather is soon to arrive."
